Meet Finley Robertson, Native2Norfolk

I found the Business Builder online course extremely useful, as I've grown up in the business world and I've seen and managed many things but I've never received formal training or teaching around aspects of business. This course did just that, it covered everything you need to know in a course that wasn't too long, strenuous or boring as some training is perceived to be.

Alongside the course, the 'portal' was full of useful resources that I still find myself referring back to, to make sure what I'm doing is right.

I strongly recommend this to anyone thinking about starting up a business as it only has positives and there's no reason you should not do it, if you really want your business to be a success.
